Full job description

National Advanced Manufacturer | Strategic Leadership Position

Our client is an advanced manufacturer and distributor of some of the world's most recognised and leading products for the industries in which it serves. With a South Australian based Head Office and facilities interstate and overseas, this cutting-edge organisation has enjoyed sustained year-on-year compound growth, achieved through outstanding leadership, strategic direction, improved manufacturing profitability and capitalisation on an ever-growing national sales and distribution network.

At a pivotal time, we are now seeking an exceptional Financial Controller to join the organisation to lead an all-encompassing, strategic finance function. You will have experience from within a sizeable (circa $40m-$60m+) manufacturing, sales and distribution business which is in organic and acquisition growth mode, and be able to demonstrate the value of your contribution.

Combined with your outstanding financial, strategic and commercial acumen will be your ability to streamline and simplify financial reporting to allow for timely, accurate and meaningful data which is relevant to a large and diverse organisation, impacted by both domestic and international market conditions.

You will be mature in your thinking and strategic in your outlook, understand complex business and IT systems, and ideally have some experience in M&A, market penetration, and effective leadership and management instilling a culture of accountability, proactivity and taking ownership. Experience in the implementation of advanced factory job costing methods, analysis of material/labour rate variances and provision of accurate management reporting and financial data surrounding capital expenditure are highly desirable as the organisation seeks to automate further elements of their manufacturing and production operations.

This is an outstanding career opportunity for a highly experienced Financial Controller, or rapidly rising finance professional looking to take the next step in their career.
