CHANGE ANALYST

Full job description

Your new company

Join one of the largest employers in Newcastle during an exciting time of builds, upgrades and delivery of enterprise infrastructure and software applications to improve services to their large customer base. To support them with this growing demand, an opportunity for a strong Change Analyst with a business readiness and training focus, has been created to help support the organisation-wide engagement and uptake of new applications and processes.

Your new role

Working within the Business readiness and change adoption function, you will be instrumental in the delivery of a major program of work as it transitions into business as usual. This role is part of a transformation program and will have a significant impact on the company's business processes and underlying technology applications. As a key member of the change and adoption team, you will plan and manage the people, process and behaviour change across the program by deploying the necessary training, communication, stakeholder engagement and business readiness activities.

Your new role will include

- Impact assessments and change management plans
- Business readiness activities
- Business stakeholder engagement plans
- Training and communication

What you'll need to succeed

To be successful in this role you will need to demonstrate previous experience in supporting a Project implementation from a change adoption and training perspective. You will have excellent communication skills across all levels of an organisation, with a sound knowledge of Change Management Principles. You must be able to demonstrate effective group management techniques and the ability to produce change management plans and impact assessment reports. Experience with Service Now and postgraduate qualifications in Change Management and/or Project Management will be highly regarded.

What you'll get in return

This is an excellent opportunity to work on a high-profile project alongside a dedicated team, in a well-established organisation based in Newcastle, NSW. The initial contract term is 6 months, with a high likelihood of extension.
