Full job description

Your new company

An up and coming expanding Logistics 4PL who has recently emerged into the Australian market and gone from strength to strength since. An innovative customer focussed company, with a strong loyal client base.

Your new role

Your new job is an office-based position sitting in a team of three transport schedulers based out of Sydney's east. You will :

Be primarily responsible for the scheduling of container loads from wharf to client by liaising with a number of transport companies.

You will be expected to implement new and improved processes where you see fit, as well as building loads then allocating them to a relevant vehicle.

Provide Excellent Customer Service at every opportunity.

What you'll need to succeed

You must have previous experience with either transport allocating or transport scheduling and ideally you will be have container freight experience. An intermediate level of excel will be needed and you must be able to demonstrate good written and verbal communication skills.

What you'll get in return

You will be on an exciting career path with an expansive new company in Australia that shows no signs of slowing down, you will have full training provided to bed in with a small high performance specialist team.
