Full job description

Your new company

Janesce is an organic and bio-dynamically certified cosmetic company founded in 1968 which is based around the principles of good nutrition for wellness and skin health. Nutrition for the skin is the cornerstone of the Janesce philosophy, and their selection of ingredients brings the full value of this through their products. Janesce utilises nutrition to correct, heal and nurture health from within. The tight knit team is currently looking for a Manufacturing Supervisor with a background in organic cosmetics to join their thriving team.

Your new role

You will be based at the Echunga manufacturing plant where you will work closely with the broader team in leading, engaging and creating a positive team culture. You will be; managing the multifaceted laboratory in the manufacturing of the product, assisting with the development of new products, product range testing, supervising labelling and filling, and liaising with the farm to do quality assurance of raw materials. Knowledge on formulating is an advantage.

What you'll need to succeed

You will have worked within the cosmetic manufacturing industry and/or have a Bachelor of Organic Chemistry (or equivalent). You will ideally have had demonstrated experience in a similar role and be passionate about the organic skin care industry. You will be a trustworthy hard worker, that acts with integrity and is honest and transparent. You will want to grow and develop with the company, and enjoying working collaborative together with your team. You will be available to work 4 days a week (8 day fortnight), for the initial period with
