Job Advert

Want to be at the heart of things? As a Supply Graduate with Reckitt, you'll have the freedom to influence and improve our supply chain at every step!

With complete involvement from the day one, you'll play a key role in allowing us to meet our commitments by working cross-functionally with both internal and external stakeholders to ensure we can supply to our customers on time and in full. You'll build relationships and get involved in everything from launching new products, improving supply or reducing costs. The key focus will be on 'learning through doing' but with the support of our experienced supply team. The program is structured but flexible and typically runs over a two to three year period. You can expect rotations in Customer Demand Planning, Customer Collaboration, Logistics and New Product Development which will set you up for a global career within Reckitt.

You'll succeed because...

...you're a natural relationship builder, able to collaborate and lead joint activities with all your stakeholders. You're comfortable with technology and are naturally curious with an excellent ability to objectively and independently come to conclusions. You're good with numbers. You're an analytical and creative problem solver, able to evaluate and resolve issues. Above all, you're a self-starter that thrives in a multicultural, fast-paced environment.

You'll love it because...

...you'll have the freedom to make a difference. You'll put your own ideas into practice. The products you get out there will allow people to live healthier lives and have happier homes. And our dynamic, ownership-driven culture will bring the very best out of you, every day.

How to Apply

Please submit your application including resume and academic transcript via
